Liz Jones

Writer & Journalist

Liz was born on 5th September 1958 and is proud of the fact she's two months younger than Madonna.

Her father was in the Army, her mother was a ballerina, and Liz is the youngest of seven children. She grew up in Essex.

Her first job was on Company magazine. After 11 years at The Sunday Times she became editor-in-chief of Marie Claire magazine. She left to become chief interviewer at the London Evening Standard before being poached to become fashion editor of the Daily Mail in 2003; her anti-perfectionist, anti-fur stance meant she was banned from Chanel, Hermes, Miu Miu and Dior. She is now a columnist at the Mail on Sunday where she won Columnist of the Year in 2012 and has a global readership of 69m. Her personal 'diary' column about her marriage, divorce, lack of children, abundance of cats, face lift and general nuttiness is the most widely read column in the world.

Her appearance on Celebrity Big Brother in January 2014 exposed not just her cellulite but her talent for comedy in the now notorious 'bath scene'.

Other than fashion, Liz is best known for her fierce campaigning for animal rights. She is a vegan and a recovering anorexic. She is also profoundly deaf. As the human companion of three border collies and two horses at her home in the Yorkshire Dales, she is also very physically fit.

2020 will see Liz's Debut novel '8 ½ Stone' published and her first ever Live Theatre Tour.
